10-Inning Win for Moose Over Ponoka Gang Ushers In Elks-Kiwanis Carnival

Lindskog Rumps in From Third in Extra Session for One-Run Margin—Rotvik and Tulloch Both Hurl Nice Brand and Fielding by Both Teams Was Splendid

The big Carnival which is being staged this week, sponsored by the Elks and Kiwanis, started Monday afternoon under very favorable conditions. The big attraction at the Athletic grounds was the baseball game between the Ponoka team and the Wetaskiwin Moose. This game was very close and exciting, and kept the crowd thrilled during all of the ten innings played. The Moose got away to a nice start in the first inning, when Cleland and Douge scored, but there was not another tally by the home team until the tenth, when Lindskog brought in the winning run. The visitors were kept scoreless for the full innings, with the exception of the seventh and eighth when Tulloch landed on a ball in right field which on account of the automobiles could not be recovered before the runner had reached the third sack. He scored on a single by Sweet. Bond got to first on an error, and reached home by two other errors occurred in this inning. The final score was 3-2 in favor of the Moose. Both pitchers played good ball, each having 8 strikeouts to their credit. Both teams were out to win, and as snappy playing featured the game throughout, it was a very fine exhibition of the popular game. Gillespie gave entire satisfaction as umpire.

Horse Races

The boys' pony race, one-quarter mile heats, was close and exciting, the winners being:

- 1st, Jack Kelley, with Paisy.
- 2nd, L. M. C. Jackson's Rex.
- 3rd, Albert Beller's Tux.

The winners of the saddle horse race, one-half mile, open, were:

- 1st, Barker, Rock.
- 2nd, L.M.C. Jackson's Rex.
- 3rd, Mr. Taylor's Babe.

The Indian races did not materialize, as the Indians did not bring their horses in.

C. D. Eaman acted as starter and the judges were E. Recknagel and C. W. Taylor.

During the afternoon the Coak Lake Boys' Band rendered an excellent musical program, which delighted the crowd.

In the evening, the Carnival opened in the curling rink, where games of different kinds as well as dancing were conducted. The Carnival is being well patronized again this year, and there is every likelihood that it will prove to be the most successful yet held when the financial statement is presented.

COURT CONFIRMS JUDGMENT IN BRODY'S LIMITED CASE

The judgment of Justice Ford in allowing damages of $147,150 to Brody's Limited, against the Canadian National railways in connection with a fire which destroyed the premises and stock of the plaintiff in May, 1928, was confirmed in a finding by the Alberta appeal court, delivered by Chief Justice Harvey Thursday morning.

The chief justice reviewed the case at some length and quotes several authorities for his finding, which is concurred in by all other members of the court.

He relates, "the trial judge found an employee of the C.N.R. was negligent in washing his motor while the wiring was connected and this court concurs in the finding."

A very pretty and popular wedding took place in St. Mary's Church, Ponoka, on Tuesday, when Miss Inez Beatrice Headley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with green boughs, potted plants and ferns. The ceremony was performed beneath an arch of boughs from which was suspended a white wedding veil. Rev. A. B. Ellison, pastor of the Bethany Swedish Baptist Church, St. Paul, read the marriage service at 3:30 in the presence of 100 guests. He was assisted by Rev. A. J. Fieldus, pastor of the local Baptist church.

Miss Byllemoes had as her bridesmaid a classmate from Bethany Institute, St. Paul, Miss Ruth Ostrum, of Kansas City, Mo. Miss Ostrum wore a gown of pale rose georgette fastened with a cape and uneven hemline. She carried a shower bouquet of roses, larkspur and daisies.

Obituary

ERIK T. JOHNSON
Erik T. Johnson, an old timer of Wetaskiwin district, passed away at the home of his brother, Chas. Johnson, at Boxholm, Ia., on Wednesday, at the age of 68 years, one month and twelve days. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were motoring to Iowa and the car went into the ditch and upset. Mr. Johnson received a broken collar bone and after being in the hospital at S. Dakota for five days, was pronounced capable of continuing the journey of five hundred miles, but he was injured internally, and passed away a week later.

He was born in Sweden, and came to the U.S. at the age of eighteen years. After a number of years in Nebraska, he came to Canada in 1902 and homesteaded forty-two miles from Wetaskiwin. The late Mr. Johnson was well known in Wetaskiwin, and has many friends here who regret to learn of his passing. The old time settlers will remember him as one of the progressive farmers of the early days. He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, and six daughters, namely, Mrs. Aaron Johnson of Edberg; Mrs. Essen, Dorlene; Mrs. Ryley, Mission, B.C.; Mrs. De Frain, Athabasca, and Emma and Vera at Ferintosh, also twelve grandchildren. The funeral was held on Sunday at Ferintosh and the interment took place in the family plot in the Ferintosh cemetery.

The deceased was in her 88th year and had lived an active Christian life. Interment will be made in the old family cemetery, Kingston, Ontario, where the deceased was born.

JOHN HANSON
Another pioneer of the Wetaskiwin district passed away on Friday morning last in the person of John Hanson of Falm, at the age of sixty-two years, and eleven months, after being a sufferer with dropsy for some time. Deceased arrived in this community about twenty-five years ago from Sweden, and took up land in the Falm district. After spending a few years in B.C. he returned to the district in 1914. ALBERTA'S FUR PELT OUTPUT DECLINED BUT PRICES HIGHER

Edmonton, Alta., June 28. — Alberta's fur export business from July 1927, until June 30, 1928, was valued at $4,306,634.05, according to figures compiled under the direction of Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture and Health, and released on Thursday. In all 1,447,918 pelts were exported.

The figures for the year under review show a decrease over the corresponding period of 1926-1927, when a total of 2,121,023 pelts, valued at $4,430,131 were exported. Against the falling off in quantity of furs however, must be shown a better scale of prices.

Muskat proved the most productive fur-bearing animal, there being 508,138 hides valued at $660,576.30 exported. The average price was $1.30. Next in order came beaver, with 21,759 pelts, valued at $54,725. The average price obtained was $2.50.

Third in order was prairie wolf with 29,133 pelts, valued at $337,745, and at an average price of $15. Badger was next on the list with a total of 18,536 pelts, valued at $370,720 or an average of $20.

In all 2,463 silver black fox were exported for a total revenue of $172,410, or an average of $70, the highest individual average.

Cross foxes, totalling 2,083, brought in a revenue of $154,150, or an average of $50. Red fox numbering 6,355 brought in a total of $190,650 or an average of $30.

MUNICIPAL HOSPITALS MEETING HELD IN PONOKA
A meeting in the interests of Municipal Hospitals was held in the town hall on Saturday afternoon.

The city of Wetaskiwin is making arrangements for the erection of a hospital, and in order to have a large territory to draw from, are desirous of securing three townships in Fertile Valley Municipality. In order to further the movement, Messrs. C. H. Russell and W. Prest were delegated by the Wetaskiwin authorities to come to Ponoka and see what could be done. Both gentlemen spoke and explained in a very kind manner what the city and the north intended doing. Their present hospital was unsuitable and too small. They had a good equipment and some $12,000 of a fund in the bank but before they made their final plans the question of the amount of territory had to be considered, thus their visit.

Mr. Miller, of the Department of Public Health, Edmonton, was also present and answered a number of questions pertaining to the act, etc.

Mr. Ed. Hinkley was in the chair, and a lengthy discussion ensued. It was stated that Lacombe was likewise considering the erection of a Municipal hospital, and wanted several sections in the southernmost part of the Municipality. That being the case, it would leave Ponoka high and dry as far as a future hospital was concerned. "Better draw a line through the town east and west, giving Wetaskiwin the north half and Lacombe the south half," thus have the Municipality split up as suggested.

While our neighbors to the north and south were congratulated on their enterprise and extended the best of luck, the feeling of the meeting was to take no action in the matter at present in case that anything might be done to impair the future of our district in the matter of a hospital.

HONORED ON TENTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY
A pleasant event took place on Thursday evening when a large number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Malmas assembled in a party to do them honor on the occasion of their tenth wedding anniversary. The event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Malmas, senior. A pleasant evening was spent in musical numbers, after which Rev. Miller explained to the wedding couple the nature of the assembled party and presented on their behalf an array of handsome and useful gifts. Impromptu speeches by Miss Wagar, Mrs. A. B. Peterson and Mr. Lundell followed and were suitably replied to by Mr. Malmas. The tea table, presided over by Mrs. H. Asa, looked very inviting, and ample justice was done to the delicious lunch. After singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," the guests departed for their respective homes.

A very successful tournament was run off at the Wetaskiwin Golf Club on Dominion Day under ideal weather conditions. There were 27 visitors and 15 local entries for the Club Championship, which was won by Mr. Welch of Red Deer, the runner up being Mr. A. Gaetz also of Red Deer. The winner of the First Flight was Leo Dafoe of Edmonton, the runner up being Mr. Carey of Camrose. The winner of the Second Flight was R. E. Schmitz of Wetaskiwin, the runner up being Joe Oletad, also of Wetaskiwin. The handsome prizes were presented to the winners by A. Knox, one of the Club's oldest members, with a few happy and appropriate remarks. Lunch was served by the lady members, and many flattering comments were overheard in connection therewith. A larger entry had been anticipated, but unfortunately the Edmonton Country Club Championship was being played at the same time, thereby preventing many from coming who had intended to be present. Amongst those taking part in the tournament from outside points who were particularly well known to the local members were Harry Wells from Calgary and Jack Rogers from Hairy Hill.

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE

Dr. Long is visiting Southley Downs to which he is conducted by Ahmad Das, an Oriental. There he meets Mr. Southley, whom a detective friend, Alexander Pierce, has told him to watch, and his son Ernest Southley, Mr. Hayward and his son Vilas, and then Josephine Southley, whom he had seen faint on the train. Josephine tells him the story of Southley Downs and its ghost, which is not the ghost of a human being but of a tiger.

Dr. Long has a quarrel with Vilas Hayward over Josephine, and finds that the Haywards have a strange authority over the Southleys. He is ordered to leave Southley Downs. The rain prevents him leaving at once. Dr. Long and Ernest go out on the road in the rain looking for the tracks of a tiger that Ernest says are there.

They find the tracks. Later Ernest and Dr. Long see a prowling creature at the hall of Southley Downs. This frightens the elder Hayward, who also sees it. Ernest begins to feel that Ahmad Das is perpetrating some devilry.

The elder Hayward is later found dead, his neck broken as if by a giant's blow. Now read on—

"It is even an intruder's business to be watchful, at a time like this. I believe you'd better try to get some sleep."

"Still the doctor—but there are no personal wishes involved this time." She even had the spirit to smile at me.

But I couldn't answer that smile. The scene in the den had struck home too hard.

Her Nerves Set Her Trembling Nearly Got Best of Her

Mrs. David Rodika, Rocky Mountain House, Alta., writes: "When I first got married my nerves were something terrible as I was in a run down condition on account of boarding a number of men."

"My nerves were so bad they nearly got the best of me, and the least little excitement would set me trembling, and I had to have some one with me all the time."

"One day I saw an advertisement of and decided to give them a trial. After taking one box I could feel a big improvement, and after I had taken three boxes I was better, and now, I have no sign of nerve trouble of any description.

"I feel as though I cannot praise Heart and Nerve Pills too highly as they certainly have been worth their weight in gold to me. They are a boon to anyone suffering with bad nerves."

"Professional interest alone," I told her. Maybe it was just the effect of the dawn that her eyes seemed to lose their luster before my gaze. She hurried on up the hall, turning at the door of her own room.

"Thank you for your watchfulness," she called to me. "And I'm sorry I spoke so rudely when you first spoke to me—and I don't expect any other—but professional interest—now. If there was anything that I could say—about last night—I'd say it, too. But I know it wouldn't help any."

"I can't imagine that it would."

"But at least—you are not going home today."

"The storm decided that matter for me, I'm afraid. But there may be a chance yet."

The door shut behind her. The early morning hours drew on, and the mist was that the twilight of dawn faded like the rain.

One of the negroes had built a little fire in the library, and Southley joined me here. And in a moment Ahmad Das opened the door from the dining room.

He stood straight and calm and untroubled, not an expression that the eyes of men could read on his impassive face as he called us in to breakfast.

After breakfast Ernest and I went down to the scene of the murder. It would be several hours before the coroner came; and I thought that any obvious clues should be collected and preserved at once. Such things have mysterious ways of disappearing.

We had no difficulty in locating the exact spot where the body had been. Even the rain had not washed away all the evidence. My first work was to look about for footprints. There were none to be seen. The place was covered with a rich growth of grass, and foot-ruled turf as a rule does not receive a very clear imprint. Besides, the rains would have washed away any imprint that had been made.

We were no more successful in finding a weapon with which the crime could have been committed. We searched the hillside with the greatest possible care; and even waded a short distance into the swamp. Of course it seemed like that any blunt instrument that could have inflicted the wound could have been easily tossed into the swamp water, from which it could not be recovered until the waters receded again.

Although it was inundated to a depth of six feet now, it was perfectly clear that the isthmus was still above the surface of the water at the moment of the murder. It was not covered until the final wreckage of the levee, several minutes afterward. It would have been possible for the murderer to have waded across the isthmus to the opposite high lands before the wall of water came. In that case he was still to be found in the thick jungle beyond.

Since the light had made it possible, we had put a negro in an upstairs window with a powerful pair of field glasses, if the murderer was indeed in refuge in the thick jungle; the glasses would reveal any attempt to should make to escape. His only hope would be to keep the plateau between him and the house, a feat that would become increasingly difficult as he neared the mainland. And it was true the water was too deep to wade. He would either have to construct a raft, or else risk his life in a long, desperate swim.

The watch was kept like the guard of an army camp. It was continuous. When the negro was obliged to leave his post another took his place.

We picked up a few surface clues. We found a man's hat; but it was perfectly evident that it was the hat Hayward had worn. I had not particularly noticed it as he went out the door; yet Ernest recognized it as the hat he had worn.

"The place it lay was somewhat significant. It was ten full paces farther up the slope than the place where we had found the body."

"Could we have dropped it off when we carried the body to the house?" Ernest asked.

"When I lifted the head the hat was already off," I replied.

"Then you see what it means?" He looked at me darkly.

"It means that either part of the struggle occurred higher up the slope, or else some violent action at that point knocked the hat from his head. It seems to me there would be signs—deeper imprints—if the first was the case; and more likely that he saw or heard his enemy for the first time when he was on this point of the path."

"He must have been on his way down to the driveway then."

"Of course."

"He certainly could not have seen well in the darkness. He might have heard, though, or felt."

"Perhaps he could make out a shadow. Likely he started to run, and his hat fell off at the first leap."

"The levee was already breaking then. He must have heard its faint signs. It seemed likely he must have known that retreat by way of the roadway to the city was already cut off. Then why—and his eyes bored into mine—did he turn in the opposite direction from the house, rather than toward it? We found the body ten yards farther down the slope."

"Men in such terror as he must have been are not particularly careful which way they run. They only want to get away in any direction."

"But the most frightened man won't run in the face of the danger. It is perfectly evident then that his foe came behind him—between his own position and the house."

"That seems to be indisputable."

"The murderer must have chased him."

"Of course."

"And he must have been unbearably fleet. It was true that the Hayward was a large man physically, and would not ordinarily have been able to run very fast. But in such terror as he was, he would have run faster than any expert track man. You know,

Long, that no man ever really runs until he is in terror. Some reserve power and strength comes to his aid. You remember that from your own experience—the way you could get away from a watermelon patch when the owner got out his shotgun. He ran somewhat downhill, so every condition was with him for a fast flight. And yet his enemy caught up with him within ten yards."

"It is an important fact, Ernest."

"It certainly is. Police records show that in very few cases have crimes been committed by a criminal actually overtaking a fleeing victim when they were both on foot. The victim's fear makes him the fleetest; and the criminal has only the strength of his purpose to make him fleet." Yet Hayward was overtaken in ten yards."

"Yes."

"He probably ran screaming—a sound that could not be heard above the roar of the storm."

I agreed to this, too.

"It's no ordinary crime, Long. The murderer had no ordinary motives. His passion, his blood madness, if I may use the word, must have been just as terrific an emotion as Hayward's fear—an emotion that inspired him to run fast enough down that slope to overtake his prey within ten yards."

"I don't believe I like the word prey in this capacity, Ernest," I told him. "There's an inference in it that isn't soothing to the spirit. But there isn't any doubt about the fury and intensity of the slayer. There's another element that proves it even more clearly than the fact that he overtook Hayward within ten yards."

"What is that?"

"The terrible, rending violence of the blow. A cold-blooded murderer wouldn't have struck like this. The slayer would have waited in the darkness—struck from ambush with a bill or knife or pistol. Now look at this."

I showed Ernest the imprint in the turf where the body had lain. It was singularly deep and distinct.

"Does it mean anything to you?" I asked.

"Do you mean that the blow was so violent that Hayward was simply knocked into the earth when he fell?"

"Nothing else. It is likely that he never moved or cried out after the blow struck him down. He was hurled to the ground with such force that he left this imprint—as if a meteor had smote him. The neck was broken—a clean, violent break. I knew it when I examined the body."

We found one other clue that for a little while made us hopeful. It was one-half of a cuff-link, broken sharply off. It was a rich thing, of gold and a single ruby. Then we walked back toward the house.

"I suppose you'll know where suspicion will point," Ernest said, just before we reached the steps.

We stopped, face to face.

"Good Heavens, man! Don't you think I have eyes? No one can help but see the way things point—and there's nothing in this world to do but cover our eyes and yell coincidence! But the detectives that come in the boat today—they'll be fresh and have clear eyes. And they'll suspect Ahmad Das. He was the one man that was out on the hillside with Hayward at the moment of the murder."

"Of course. Although it is true he started in another direction."

"You remember that he took a long time to get down to the garage. He might have waited for Hayward on the trail—then circled back to the garage, and only pretended to look for him. I don't say it's true, but that's what the coroner and the detectives will suggest."

"But why didn't he strike him as he went past, instead of chasing the screaming man down the hill?"

"Who knows! There might be such a thing as missing his first blow, and knowing that only by silencing the man's lips could he be saved from an attempted murder charge. At least, Ahmad Das will be suspected. And the crowning point is that he hated Hayward."

"And Hayward hated him," I agreed.

"Next after Ahmad, the negroes will be suspected, charged with being in the pay of either my father or me, or possibly you."

"Yes, all of them will be investigated."

"Vilas won't be accused—very naturally—and of course my sister won't. It would take more than a woman's strength, or even the strength of any other than a large, powerful man, to administer such a blow as killed Hayward!"

We had now halted below the veranda.

"There's one other thing to remember," I told him.

"What is that?"

"Another thing to wonder at. As you say, only a powerful man, or something very powerful, could have dealt this blow. A man could not have done it, except with some great, heavy weapon that by its own weight would gather tremendous momentum. It was dark, and the two of them were in mid flight down the hill. Then think what wonderful accuracy, what perfect muscle control, was necessary for the pursuer to swing his weapon and strike the fleeing figure in front of him in the darkness—a blow as accurate as that with which a butcher fells a steer. It doesn't seem hardly human."

He started up the steps, and turned with a little laugh that was somehow very grim. "You might as well quit looking for things to be human—around this house," he told me. "Abandon such hope—you who enter here."

Just then we heard the voice of the watchman, hallowing down the stairs. His glass had revealed the shadow of a boat upon the far reaches of the marsh.

At first the boat was just a black speck so far distant that we could not tell whether it was some one escaping from the plateau or a boat from the mainland.

"If it is the murderer, and he's getting away, there's no chance to stop him," Southley said. We can't get word to the other side in time."

"The speck was hard to follow. There were so many tree clumps and thickets that hid it. But slowly it became apparent that the boat was drawing nearer, and that it had a smaller craft, evidently a rowboat, in tow. And within a half-hour more we could distinguish its occupants."

The large craft—a long, low motor boat—contained five men. Of course, one of them was a negro I had sent, one was evidently the skipper or owner of the craft, and two of the others were the coroner and his assistant. My hope lay in the fifth. If my telegram had gone true to its destination, tonight there would be new forces to cope with this problem of Southley Downs.

Most of the male occupants of the house were down at the edge of the water to greet the crafts. Their progress was slow. They constantly faced the danger of snags and submerged shrubbery that might wreck the motor boat. Ernest called to them and showed how they might make a landing in the deep water beside the isthmus.

At first we couldn't see their faces. The glitter of the water prevented it. But when at last they drew close it was with the sense of the deepest disappointment to me. I looked in vain for the face I had hoped to see.

No one could mistake the coroner. He looked the part—somber clothes and all; he had the voice, too—those unmistakable tones of a confirmed mourner who knows all flesh is dust. His assistant was a rather sprightly young man, with the bloom of his profession yet to come upon him. The man who steered the boat was a character not unfamiliar to those who know the waterways. He seemed to be a quiet, good-natured old chap with sparkling eyes and bushy red hair—almost sixty years of age and still sprightly as a chickadee.

The mission had evidently not affected him at all. He called us a cheery greeting as the boats drew up. When he rose to make the motor boat fast, all of us saw that his garb fitted the rest of him. He wore an old, mud-spattered suit, and queer little rubber boots that were tied with strings and came just to his ankles, making a ludicrous bag of each of his trouser legs.

Sam, the colored man, was in the back of the boat, and next to him sat a lean thin-faced man I had never seen before. But he had an official air, and I guessed him right as an inspector from a nearby city—a man on the plain-clothes force. He was an alert, determined man with a distinct air of authority.

My first words were with Sam. He swore that he had sent my telegram to the address I had indicated.

"I waited an hour for an answer, sir, and none came," Sam told me. "I could not wait no more. The detective gentleman said we had to go without him—and like as not he would not be no good, nohow."

There are times when all a mother's love can't soothe a fretful baby. No way of telling just what's wrong, yet something must be done. Castoria time! A few drops, and Baby has dropped off to sleep. This marvelous means of quieting a restless infant is utterly harmless. There is not one ingredient but what all doctors know and approve, and would let you give your baby every day in the week. In fact Castoria is a purely vegetable product. Gas pains, constipation, even diarrhea can be dispelled in this same manner. Castoria is older than you are, but physicians still say "nothing better for babies."

An old-fashioned remedy if you count its years, but parents are old-fashioned who still raise babies without it! And at least five million modern mothers keep it handy day and night, for twenty-five million bottles were bought last year! Buy yours now; don't wait until you need it.

NURSES know, and doctors have declared there's nothing quite like Aspirin to relieve all sorts of aches and pains, but be sure it is Aspirin the name Bayer should be on the package, and on every tablet. Bayer is genuine, and the word genuine—in red—is on every box. You can't go wrong if you will just look at the box:

U.F.A. PROV. DISTRICT ASSOC. DEALT WITH MANY MATTERS AT CAMROSE CONVENTION

The Camrose Provincial District Association of the U.F.A., held its annual convention in the U.F.A. hall on Tuesday, June 25. The entire district was well covered by representatives from points where United Farmers' locals are established. A number of visitors were in attendance as well. Mr. Gus Rose, president of the meeting and delivered an address in which he reviewed questions of vital importance to farmers at the present time.

He appealed to the farmers not to be careless and indifferent towards organization, because now, as always, whatever progress was to be accomplished and whatever safeguarding responsibility was necessary to take care of their industry, would have to be taken by themselves, and that the U.F.A. was the best medium for performing this service. He advised study and support of the various marketing organizations, for, while the wheat pool was a decided success, much remained to be done, particularly with regard to the other pools, livestock, poultry and dairy. He mentioned that farmers should also study civic improvement and that advantages should be taken of the Government town planning expert's services to help them beautify farm homes and to lay out gardens, which would in a measure make for interest and contentment.

Mrs. Ed. Kehoe, member of the poultry marketing association, gave a complete report on the progress and work of that branch and stated that an aggressive program of development was being prepared by the central authorities calculated to improve the marketing of eggs and poultry in the future. The last payment on the turkey sales will be issued in the form of participation certificates shortly. The association is taking over the government plan and a policy of ownership and control will be pursued in the future in which the patrons will share after the fashion of the grain elevators.

Jonathan Toulé, junior board member of the provincial association, also gave an address. He stated that the young people's organization was gradually learning to realize and assume their responsibility and were preparing themselves for the future.

Hon. V. W. Smith was the next speaker and received a warm welcome. He reported comprehensively on government work and stated that the financial position was in a very healthy condition. He noted that the large surplus shown this year was not due, as stated by the opposition, to the adding of the money received from the sale of the railways to general revenue but to careful expenditure. The very satisfactory sale of the railways was a source of special gratification and the money received from this source would be credited to capital account. Mr. Smith said that the telephone department was in excellent shape and that they were increasing business, keeping the system well maintained and building up large reserves. In fact he judged that after a few more years' operation, a reduction would be made in telephone charges if the present progress continued.

He hoped that the Farm Loan measure, now in operation by the government, would be a source of benefit to many farmers who may need to use it. The Old Age Pension act, to be put into force shortly, would also be a great boon to many.

He felt that while the government's highway program was a heavy one and involved a huge expenditure of money, that the government was moving as rapidly as possible to meet the great demand that was in evidence throughout the province. It was their policy to extend the work as quickly as possible and to, at the same time, give fair treatment to every section. He hoped to be able to get the highway extended to Dayland in 1930. It was a source of satisfaction to know that the Wetaskiwin to Camrose stretch would be gravelled this year.

With regard to hydro-electric, Mr. Smith stated that the government was investigating carefully, but since it involved a tremendous outlay of public funds, it would be necessary to move cautiously. The following members of the executive board were elected for the coming year: Mr. Gus Rose, president; Mrs. E. Kehoe, vice-president; Mr. H. Luger, second vice-president; M. Jonathan Toulé, junior vice-president. Board members: W. J. Brady, Edberg; F. Olson, New Norway; Sherman Fox, Kelsey; W. Ryason, Heather Brae; Ludwig Pedersen, Round Hill; P. C. Hanson, Bawit; W. Gillespie, Dayland; J. Jamieson, Hastings Coulee.

The following resolutions were discussed in detail by the delegates and carried:

A constitutional amendment asking that all locals in the constituency which have no representation on the board of directors appoint an auxiliary member, who may be called to attend special meetings of the central board for organization purposes. The weed menace came in for considerable discussion, and the following resolution was passed: Whereas some weed inspectors fail to do their duty thoroughly and whereas the weed menace is becoming more serious year by year be it resolved that we recommend that each farmer be required to make a personal annual report on a regular form as a further safeguard in the matter of weed eradication.

The following resolutions on educational matters were passed: Resolved that we ask that the department of education introduce into the school curriculum, elementary lessons on co-operative ideals, and also that a treatise on the efforts and success of farm organizations be given a place in the historic readings supplied to the pupils.

Whereas we believe that the school curriculum contains an immense burden for practical modern education and is a deterrent to a child completing his or her full school course, therefore be it resolved that the curriculum be severely overhauled, modernized and improved.

Whereas the old fashioned school district of square or rectangular shape is crude and whereas a distance over two miles for a child to have to walk is a decided hardship as well as unnecessary; and whereas this district plan submitted which we shall term the "ideal

District," does not materially increase taxation and brings the school comparatively close to the pupil. Therefore be it resolved that we recommend to the department of education to assist whenever possible in the formation of such districts in groups as shown by attached plan.

Resolved that we again ask the provincial government to seriously consider the establishment of hydro-electric power in the province under government control.

Whereas there are immense quantities of farm produce at present being imported into Canada particularly from the United States, South American Republics, Australia and New Zealand in direct competition with our products;

And whereas the present situation is a very serious menace to the success of agriculture in the west, and we particularly mention the dairy industry;

And whereas the present Dominion government shows a tendency to sacrifice the interests of the agricultural producer of this country to those of the manufacturers of certain other products in the setting up of trade relationships with other countries; therefore be it resolved that we demand that more restrictions be placed against the importations of farm products from other countries and further that we ask our federal representatives to take special action in this matter in the House of Commons.—Camrose Canadian.

FINE MUSICAL EVENT

A recital of great interest and educational value was held at the spacious apartments of Mrs. Walker, most courteously offered for the occasion, when Mr. Gerard D. VanStockum presented in recital the senior grades of his class. Those participating were, in order:

Violet Parker (piano), March Grottesque, by Slindig.
Dorothy Scott (piano), Nocturne, Chopin.

Alexander Laselle, violin and piano, Concerto, Prokofoff.

Miss Eva B. Walker, A.L.C.M. (piano), "Autumn" by Chamblade.

Miss Vivian Millin (mezzo soprano) singing "Alceste," from "Divinites of the Styx," by Von Gluck.

Maria Funebre, Op. 26, Van Beethoven, by Mr. VanStockum, Mus. A., A.L.C.M., L.L.C.M.

Kathleen Orr, Polonaise Militaire, Chopin.

May Roughsedge, A.L.C.M., Rhapsodie in G Minor, Brahms. The young artists performed their solos, which all had their difficult moments and climaxes, with great skill and artistry, according to their grade. Among those who appeared in last year's recital, a large increase of facility in execution was noticed, musical taste and style were also much more in evidence, namely in the violin concerto of Alexander Laselle, who exhibited a tone and technique quite rare for a child so young and in so short a period of instruction.

Also Miss Eva Walkers playing showed a fine conception of the composition she performed, which is a difficult one indeed. Also May Roughsedge's performance of the Brahms G Minor Rhapsodie, showed unusual understanding of phrasing and tempo, rare in so young a girl, as an encore she played Paderewski's Minuet smoothly and brilliantly. Miss Vivian Millin, who was at the time, at a disadvantage of having a harshness of the throat, rendered her solo very well reaching and holding her high climaxes notes firmly and purely. Her voice has a fine pleasing quality and there is volume when needed.

Violet Parker and Kathleen Orr acquitted themselves well of their task in playing the heavy chords of their pieces. In such quick progressions, while Dorothy Scott (who was a little hampered by nervousness) and Florence French especially, gave a very musical rendition of Chopin.

Mr. VanStockum, who had the previous day received notice that his father had suddenly died, announced that he would play Beethoven's Marcia Funebre, to the memory of his departed father. This number is of orchestral effect and is a "piece de resistance" of some great artists.

Mark Hamburg played it at every recital on his last tour, and was much lauded in Edmonton, Calgary and Toronto, before an audience of 4,000 people. Mr. VanStockum played it most effectively from hardly audible pianissimo to great climaxes of the strongest fortissimo.

Mr. VanStockum also played the accompaniment to the solo.

On account of the absence of Father Walravens, the cello part of the quartet was left out and the Andante for strings was performed completely, and necessarily was 50 per cent less effective, but will be repeated at the next concert, this coming fall.

The audience, composed of the parents of the performers, included also Mrs. Manley, Miss Manley, Mrs. F. Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Knott of Edmonton, who gave all the performers a healthy, well-deserved applause.

TWO BUILDINGS AT BLACKFALDS BURN

Lacombe, June 26.—Fire, which originated in the warehouse adjoining the Larson Mercantile Company store at Blackfalds, burned both buildings to the ground last night. At about 11 o'clock the village was awakened by the fire alarm and the entire populace turned out to do battle, but by the time the blaze was noticed the fire had gained great headway and from the first the buildings were doomed. Red Deer and Lacombe fire departments were called out but their efforts were confined to saving the adjoining stores and buildings. The buildings were valued at about $4,000 and the stock between $6,000 and $7,000, half of which was saved. Both buildings and stock were covered by insurance.

FOURTH FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT

(Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta, Edmonton, June 29, 1929).

Crop conditions through the central part of the province have been considerably improved by rains during the past week, and in southern and northern sections there is satisfactory promise of a good crop, according to telegraphic reports received on Friday by the Department of Agriculture for the fourth crop report of the season.

The prolonged drought during the latter part of May and the first three weeks of June has considerably reduced the prospective yield over the area comprising the central part of the province and in a few localities early sown wheat has been pastured or plowed down. Later sown crops, however, on breaking or summer-fall have been able to weather the dry period, and as a result of the recent rains will give a fairly good yield.

The southern part of the province has received sufficient rainfall to promote continued growth. An exceptionally good stand of wheat is reported and spring wheat and the coarse grains are coming along well. The first irrigation of the season has been completed and a start will be made with the cutting of the first crop of alfalfa during the coming week.

Slight injury to crops and gardens was reported in a few localities as the result of frosts on June 19th and 23rd. With the exception of a few limited areas, insect injury has been very slight.

The Peace River district continues to show promise of a very satisfactory crop, although some localities will require further rains shortly.

Pastures are making better growth and the feed situation has been considerably improved by the past week's rains, which makes it possible for a buyer of seed to know before purchasing the quality of seed he is securing. Freedom from weed seed is an important factor in the grading of seed. The careful farmer will insist on procuring only the highest grade of seed obtainable, as undoubtedly some of our worst seeds have been introduced into fertile land through dirty seed. The farmer can safeguard himself from getting any new weed seeds by demanding, before purchasing seed, that he be supplied with a detailed analysis report, as issued by the Seed Branch. This report is the basis on which the grade is given, therefore such report must be in the hands of the seller of the seed and is available to those who insist on seeing same before placing orders. The sale of "Rejected" seed is prohibited and willful violators are prosecuted under the Seeds Act.

CLEAN SEED VERSUS WEEDS

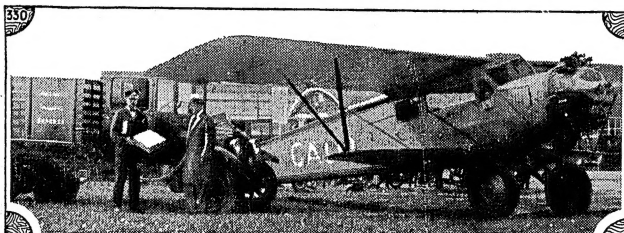

(By G. M. Stewart, District Inspector, Dominion Seed Branch)

The attention of the public is being drawn, during the first week of July, to problems relating to weeds. All who are interested in our agricultural industry, realize the necessity of weed prevention and eradication. There is ample evidence of serious losses each year through pollution of our cereal crops, and the expense connected with hauling, shipping and cleaning out screenings, consisting largely of weed seeds, is greatly reducing farm profits. The only way to profitable production is to be more persistent than the weed. Eradication is good, but prevention is better. One method of preventing the introduction of new weeds and the spread of old ones, is to sow only clean seed. Every individual farmer is personally responsible for the seed he sows on his own land, but the Seeds Act, administered by the Seed Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, controls the importation and sale of seed in Canada. This Act provides grades under which seed may be sold and all seed offered for sale must be labelled with one of such grades, which makes it possible for a buyer of seed to know before purchasing the quality of seed he is securing. Freedom from weed seed is an important factor in the grading of seed. The careful farmer will insist on procuring only the highest grade of seed obtainable, as undoubtedly some of our worst seeds have been introduced into fertile land through dirty seed. The farmer can safeguard himself from getting any new weed seeds by demanding, before purchasing seed, that he be supplied with a detailed analysis report, as issued by the Seed Branch. This report is the basis on which the grade is given, therefore such report must be in the hands of the seller of the seed and is available to those who insist on seeing same before placing orders. The sale of "Rejected" seed is prohibited and willful violators are prosecuted under the Seeds Act.

Weed seeds once introduced into our soils will, if not controlled, soon pollute our land to such an extent as to make it extremely difficult to free the soil of them. Being especially interested in that part of agriculture concerned with seed, I can not too strongly emphasize the importance and value of using clean seed.

Toronto Grets Ottawa by Air

WHEN the Canadian Pacific Air Express service was inaugurated on King's Birthday between Toronto and Ottawa, Mayor Samuel McBride of the Queen City sent a silver tray to Mayor Arthur Ellis of the capital in commemoration of the event. Photograph shows J. W. Somers, Toronto City clerk, handing the express package to Captain Earl Head, pilot of the plane, which is shown at the Leaside Airport, Toronto, ready to start. On June 6, Hamilton Airport was opened with similar circumstance and at this function also the Canadian Pacific Express was represented and carried a number of packages. Opening of these airports indicates a wide extension of airplane service in this country and a proof of the growing "air-mindedness" of Canadians.

EVERY 1928 MURDER IN LONDON SOLVED

London, June 26.—Every murder committed in London in 1928 was solved and the culprit was convicted or took his own life, according to the official report issued today.

The report of the commissioner of police shows that there were 18 murders of persons more than one year old. Eleven culprits were convicted and seven committed suicide, the report said.

The report did not include three deaths which followed illegal operations or six infant murders.

Acidity
The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick and very apparent. All gas is expelled; all excess is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take.

Any druggist has the genuine, prescription product.

WETASKIWIN YOUNGSTERS MADE THE OTHERS TRAVEL

Glady and Lola Holth and Nellie and Violet Biding participated in the South Side sports in Edmonton, on the holiday, and while they did not bag any of the jewelry, etc., they were right up at the front with fighting spirit. Mr. and Mrs. F. Chiddy and Miss Norma, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Bellamy were among the Wetaskiwin party. Miss Chiddy did not compete in the women's events.

LOCAL CHAMPIONSHIPS ON TRACK AND FIELD POSTPONED
On account of the heavy rain storm on Saturday afternoon, the local junior track and field championships were postponed and will be held at a date to be set by the joint committee.

PONOKA SPORTSMEN MAKING CERTAIN OF GOOD FISHING
If nature fails to provide an abundance of fish in the lakes around Ponoka, the sportsmen in that district will do it for her.

Recently, 3,250 fine perch were taken from Pine Lake, near Red Deer, and liberated in Chain lakes, some eight miles east of Ponoka, the sportsmen from the latter town de-fraying the cost by a subscription taken up in a few hours.

Fisheries Inspector R. T. Ridd agreed to catch the perch in Pine Lake and provide shipping tanks, if the Ponoka men would provide the transportation. Some seven hundred of the fish transplanted are adults, while the others are from five to six inches in length.

Chain lakes are a beautiful series of three spring water lakes and provide ideal conditions for perch, according to the fisheries department report on them.

Here and There
Four hundred thousand babies have been born at Banff during the past fortnight. It is not the fine mountain air that accounts for this phenomenon, but the mountain water, and the babies are rainbow trout from the Dominion Government Fish hatchery on the banks of the Bow River. They will be placed in the lakes and streams of the Rocky Mountain Parks.

Canadian Pacific Railway Police, Ontario No. 1 team, are champion revolver shots of the Dominion. After winning the Chief Constable Association Trophy in May, the team shot against the Lethbridge detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police which had won the championship for Military forces, and defeated them 1412 against 1270. Possible score was 1500.

The victorious team is composed of Investigator E. O'Brien, Suburban; and Constables H. G. Gavel, Port McNeill; J. H. B. MacDonald, Toronto; D. Prendergast, Suburban; and W. E. Tingman, White River, Ont.

With a population that ranks 28th among the countries of the world, Canada is fifth in total export and third in total turnover of trade.

Charles Olson and Raffaele Mulinari, civil engineers, are trying to make a trip circling the globe in less than 30 days using only regular mail transportation. Olson left Victoria on Canadian Pacific greyhound Empress of Asia June 13, and Mulinari arrived at Vancouver on the Empress of France June 22. Airplanes come within the term of the contract since both men have already used them. The race at time of writing is very close.

A problem that has defeated the learned for centuries—the squaring of the circle—has apparently been solved by L. W. Hartman, Canadian Pacific Railway timekeeper at London, Ont. Hartman claims he devised a geometric method by which to reproduce the exact area of a circle in the shape of a square.

University professors are now examining his solution. He was born in Rumania and never saw a college, but speaks English, French, German and Rumanian fluently.

Adelard Goulet, head barber of the Banff Springs Hotel, had what he regards as a close shave the other day when he was off duty on the golf links and met a black bear. He topped his drive and the bear's head was very near his. Wild animals are very tame in this district this year.

Of the 2,750,000 acres taken up by settlers in Canada in 1928 eighty per cent, was in such northerly districts as Prince Rupert, Saskatchewan, and the Peace River district. Alberta. The migration northward was most pronounced in the Peace River region, where 4,000 homesteads were taken up last year. In this district, there are still available 40,000 acres of fertile land, capable of adding millions of dollars to the annual value of the Dominion's crops.

EDMONTON EXHIBITION REQUIRES MORE SPACE

This year's Edmonton Exhibition, July 15-20, should be the greatest in the history of the Association. Never before have the manufacturers and merchants been so keen to secure exhibit space, and it has been necessary to construct a new exhibits building, and enlarge the grounds, to provide accommodation. The big 50th anniversary program is proving a tremendous drawing card, and visitors will Special features are hoped to draw visitors from outside points for the opening day, to hear Hon. Frank Oliver, the outstanding "Old Timer" of Western Canada, officially open the Exhibition. The mammoth street parade is receiving the enthusiastic support of the business houses, and some gorgeous and novel floats will be in the parade. The bands competing in the Amateur Band Contest, twelve in number, will be in the parade, along with the Edmonton Newsboys' Band, the Princess Pat's Band, and other city bands. Arrangements have been made with Miss Ethel Catherwood, world champion jumper, to give an exhibition of jumping, on the opening day. The admission fees to grounds and grand stand have been reduced, for the opening day to 25c each.

At a wedding reception the young man remarked: "Wasn't it annoying the way that baby cried during the ceremony?"

"It was dreadful," replied the prim little maid of honor. "When I get married I'm going to have engraved right in the corner of the invitation: 'No babies expected.'"

4,000 Shares Westmont Oils Limited in the Kevin-Sunburst Field

From MacLEAN'S MAGAZINE May 15th, 1929—Page 32

"The Kevin-Sunburst Field in Montana, centralizing 18 miles south of the Canadian border, was opened up in 1922. In the past six years, over a thousand drilled holes were put down in the field, producing among them 18,000,000 barrels of marketable oil. The most recent strike there was a well with a flow of 77,000,000 cubic feet of wet gas, from which is extracted 500 barrels of oil a day."

Westmont Oils Limited offer a block of 4,000 shares to complete a No. 2 well. The money is now on hand for the completion of No. 1 well and the Drilling Company are ready to start at once. The company are starting on a program to drill out their property which comprises 80 acres in the centre of the Kevin-Sunburst Field.

The GLADYS BELL, a discovery well in the field, came in with 2,500 barrels a day; the MIDNORTHERN HOWLING, No. 3 came in with 3,000 barrels a day. These two wells adjoin the Westmont property and are still producing. The average production from all wells in the field has been as high as 250 barrels each, per day. These figures can be verified from records of the Montana State Tax Commission.

There are seven refineries in the Kevin-Sunburst Field and a common-carrier, Government Pipeline Line assures the Company a ready market for their oil. The posted field price is $1.35 per barrel and local refineries pay a bonus of 50c per barrel to hold the oil at home.

The Directorate of Westmont Oils Limited is made up of business and professional men of Edmonton and the Edmonton District.

THE QUEST

I am looking for a wife, Sir,
Can you find me one today,
With a sort of homey set-up,
And a bit of wifely way?
For wherever I am roaming
And I see a girl I know,
I have in mind a picture
Of a woman mixing dough!

The girls today are witty,
And I like their frank appeal,
But somehow I always wonder
Could they get a decent meal?
And back my fancy wanders
To a kitchen long ago,
And a picture of my mother,
As she stood there, mixing dough.

Then I see a little cottage
With curtains blowing white,
And my magazines and papers,
And a room by evening light,
And a little fellow coming
With unsteady steps and slow,
And my wife says: "Take the baby,
For my hands are in the dough."

Will the flapper fit my picture,
And when I come home at night,
Will I find this homely mixture
In the soft and yellow light?
Or will auto, movie, dance-hall
Be the way I have to go,
With no baby, but to dance it
While the bakers mix the dough?

I am just a working fellow,
But somehow I hate to spare
This picture that for many years
I've looked for one to share,
And I think I'll keep on looking,
For I sort o' think I know
I'd never be quite happy,
If wife couldn't mix the dough.

ALBERTA OFFERED SAME PROPOSITION AS MANITOBA

Ottawa, June 27.—The Dominion government is now prepared to accord to Alberta and Saskatchewan, in settlement of the natural resources question, "treatment similar to that granted to Manitoba with respect to the continuance of Dominion subsidies." This was announced by the prime minister Wednesday. It was stated by the prime minister that the Dominion government, having in mind negotiations now pending with the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, and the representations of the governments of these provinces with respect to the continuance of the payment of subsidies in accordance with the terms of existing legislation, is now prepared to accord to Alberta and Saskatchewan, in settlement of the resources question, treatment similar to that granted to Manitoba with respect to the continuance of Dominion subsidies.

Brownlee's View. Premier Brownlee commenting on the statement of Premier King expressed the opinion that the Dominion is now prepared to settle with the province along the lines of the Alberta Act in which certain subsidies were stipulated.

The province at present receives $502,500 in respect to allocated lands and if the Alberta Act is adhered to an increase to $750,000 will be operative when the population of the province reached 800,000 and eventually would climb to $1,125,000 at such time as the population is returned at 1,250,000, this sum to represent the final readjustment and to remain in effect perpetually.

It will be noticed that in respect to these subsidies the Alberta Act coincides absolutely with the terms of the recommendation of the Royal Commission on Manitoba's claims. Since the Dominion Government has announced its intention of complying with this recommendation in respect to one province it would seem to be reasonable to suppose that the other provinces will be similarly treated. If this interpretation is correct then Alberta will have gained substantially by not committing itself to the former offer and awaiting the report of the Royal Commission on the terms which should be offered to Manitoba.

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1928-29 by Wynne Ferguson

ARTICLE No. 20

Several times these articles have mentioned the Auction Bridge competition that is held in London, England. These competitions arouse the greatest interest and it is nothing unusual for the number of contestants to number close to ten thousand. It would be difficult to arouse that amount of interest here just by, it is hard to say. Perhaps the English are more studious and enjoy working out these problems. Formerly these competitions were decided by "plebiscite"; that is, the correct bid in each case was adjudged to be the one chosen by the largest number of competitors. This method was found to be unsatisfactory, however, and the correct bids are now decided by a majority vote of five judges, who are selected because of their standing as experts.

The following hands make up the latest of these competitions. Look them over carefully and make up your mind what you would do in each instance. The writer will give his opinion in the next article, the decision of the English judges and the "plebiscite" vote of the competitors. A comparison of these views with that of the reader should prove most interesting.

Spades are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win seven of the eight tricks against any defense?

A can either (a) cover the eight with the nine of spades or (b) play the six of spades.

(a) Suppose A covers with the nine of spades. Y should play the ten and B the five. Y should now play the deuce of clubs, B the four. Z the queen and A wins the trick with the king. A's best lead at this point is the seven of clubs, which Z must win with the ace, Y and B following suit. Z must now lead the queen of hearts on which Y should discard the five of clubs, A and B following suit. Z should now lead the four of spades and Y wins the next two spade tricks with the ace seven of spades, Z discarding the six of hearts on the last spade. B is forced to ruff with two discards. The first discard should be the eight of clubs, but the second discard gets B into trouble. If he discards the jack of clubs, Y's ten of clubs is good. If he discards the five of diamonds, both of Z's diamonds are good. In either case, therefore, Z must win the rest of the tricks.

Suppose at trick three, A should lead back the eight of hearts. Z should win this trick with the queen of hearts and darken the sky and cast a pall of gloom over nature itself; it even robs the joys of life of their charm and it adds to the darkness round about us. Forgiveness robs insult and injury of their power to hurt, and brings back to the soul its joy and gladness.

OUR MAINSTAY, THE FARMER
Let trusts and corporations bust -
Like bubbles in the air.
And every bull in Wall Street's length
Be swallowed by a bear.
The land is safe, while rising up
At cock-crow in the morn
The farmer drives his furrows straight
And plants his golden corn.
Let banks close up their iron doors,
And bank officials flee
With all the trusting public's cash
To lands across the sea;
There's nothing in the world to fear,
We'll have enough to eat,
While in his broad and fertile fields
The farmer sows his wheat.

Though railroads may forget to pay
Their dividends when due,
And men promoting wild-cat schemes
Look very grim and blue,
There is no need to feel alarmed
(Remember what I say),
Unless the farmer should forget
To gather in his hay.
—Mina Irving, in Leslie's Weekly.

THINK IT OVER !

"Friendship is to be valued for what there is in it, not what can be gotten out of it. When two people appreciate each other because each has found the other convenient to have around, they are simply acquaintances with a business understanding. To seek friendship for its utility is as futile as to seek the end of a rainbow for its bag of gold. A true friend is always useful in the highest sense, but we should beware of thinking of our friends as brother members of a mutual benefit association with its periodical demands and threats of suspension for non-payment of dues."

Gas Forces Woman to Sleep in Chair

"Nights I sat up in a chair, I had stomach gas so bad, I took Adierika and nothing I eat hurts me now. I sleep fine," Mrs. Glenn Butler, Even the FIRST spoonful of Adierika relieves gas on the stomach and removes embarrassing amounts of old waste matter from the system. Makes you enjoy your meals and sleep better. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adierika will surprise you. Northern Drug Co.

TO MARRY OR NOT TO MARRY?

A Girl's Reverie
Mother says, "Be in no hurry.
Marriage oft means care and worry."
Auntie says, with manner grave,
"Wife is synonym for slave."
Father asks, in tones commanding,
"How does Bradstreet rate his standing?"
Sister, crooning to her twins,
Sighs, "With marriage care begins."
Grandma, near life's closing days,
Murmurs "Sweet are girlhood's ways."

Maud, twice widowed (sod and grass)
Looks at me and moans "Alas!"
They are six, and I am one.
Life for me has just begun.

They are older, calmer, wiser:
Age should have been youth's adviser.
They must know—and yet, dear me,
When in Harry's eyes I see

All the world of love there burning,
On my six advisers turning,
I make answer, "Oh, but Harry,
Is not like most men who marry."

"Pate has offered me a prize,
Life with love means Paradise.
"Life without it is not worth
All the foolish joys of earth."

So, in spite of all they say,
I shall name the wedding day.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

JOHN KNOX ANNUAL PICNIC

The John Knox School District held a very enjoyable picnic on Friday, June 28th. This picnic is an annual event and was greatly enjoyed by most of the people of the district, young and old, as all arrangements were well made.

The ladies served a picnic dinner, cafeteria style, at 12:30 noon, in the basement of the school. The tables presented a great array of good things direct from the farm kitchens. These dishes, to a visitor, seemed bountiful in measure, dainty in their make-up and most delicious to the appetite.

The school teacher, Miss Rose Kubick, had arranged a good line-up of sports and games for the children, while the adult folk amused themselves in recreation less strenuous.

After the sports, the School Board, Messrs. T. Hladik, Theodore Lahl and Herman Dahms, with Mr. Groves, as Secretary-treasurer, treated the whole crowd to ice cream. This was passed and re-passed times without number, which, with cake from the ladies' table, was a second feast to all.

The Board has re-engaged Miss Kubick, who is esteemed by all and loved by her pupils, for her third year with a substantial increase in salary.

Rev. A. L. Elliott of Wetaskiwin, is conducting Bible study in the school this week each day from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Twenty-three pupils are attending the classes regularly and are keenly interested in the vacation Bible school.

CORRECTION

In the report of the Council proceedings in last issue, it was stated that the Council was to pay half the cost of the car used by Supt. Watson, as well as making an allowance of $150 a year for the upkeep. This was an error, as the Council decided they would not be part owners of the car, but instead they voted an allowance of $150 a year for the upkeep of the car and also agreed to supply the gas and oil for same.

GIRL GUIDES AT CAMP

The Wetaskiwin and Ponoka Girl Guides to the number of 36 are now in camp at Pigeon Lake for a week, returning on Saturday next. Miss Eva Walker, captain of the local Troop, is in command of camp. CHESTERWOLD

A quiet wedding took place in the United Church parsonage on Monday, June 24, at high noon, when Miss Lillian Eleanor James, of Chesterwold, became the bride of Mr. Henry Pavo Makl, also of Chesterwold. The wedding was witnessed by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John James, also by Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Torvinen, friends of the groom. After a short honeymoon trip by motor the young couple will make their home on their farm at Chesterwold. Their many friends will wish them long life and happiness.

DUHAMEL

The Roman Catholic church at Duhamel was the scene of a pretty June wedding on Saturday morning, the 22nd, when Victoria, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hewko, of Bittern Lake, became the bride of Leonard Trautman, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Trautman, of Duhamel. Rev. Father Belleville officiating.

The bride was a charming picture, frocked in a beautiful white canton crepe model, wearing a veil caught with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. Her sister Mildred acted as bridesmaid and wore a shell pink frock. She also carried pink and white carnations.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple went to the home of the bride's parents, where dinner was served to about 60 guests.

The presents received were many and beautiful, testifying to the popularity of the young couple.

At three o'clock they left for a motor trip to Banff and Lake Louise. On Monday evening a large number of friends gathered in the community hall, Duhamel, to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Tolley and family and to Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Bernhardt and family, who are soon to leave the community. Rev. C. E. Pocock occupied the chair. There was a very pleasant program of music and vocal numbers under the leadership of Mrs. Pocock and Mr. Bernhardt. During the program Mr. and Mrs. Tolley were presented with a beautiful silver tea service on a silver tray, and a lovely bouquet of gladioli.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernhardt were given a beautiful smoker set and silver cake plate. John Congdon spoke very nicely to Mr. and Mrs. Bernhardt, while Mrs. Capsey read a nicely worded address to Mr. and Mrs. Tolley.

CROW AND MAGPIE BECOME SCARCE AROUND RED DEER

Red Deer, June 28—Seeling a crow or magpie in the district immediately around Red Deer is getting to be a novelty, owing to the efforts of the Red Deer Fish and Game association to exterminate these pests. In addition to a crow shoot, the club is conducting an extensive egg collecting contest among the school children and this is largely responsible for the scarcity of the birds. Secretary S. F. Snell of the association reports that he has vouchers from 20 school districts in the municipality of Pigeon Lake, who are co-operating with the fish and game society, telling of 1,470 eggs collected and destroyed by the school boys, and 82 feet of both birds.

The club is allowing the collectors two cents an egg and four cents per pair of feet, the money to be paid at the end of the collecting campaign.

RED DEER'S MONEY BY-LAW CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY

Red Deer, June 29.—The first unanimous vote on a money by-law was recorded here on Friday, when Red Deer burgesses voted on the Eddy Match Company measure by which the company will be assessed only on improvements it constructs. The Board of Trade committee vigorously canvassed the town and conveyed the voters to the polls, and their efforts are largely responsible for a turnout of 220 property owners. It is estimated that 95 per cent of the taxpayers eligible recorded a ballot and not one of these recording an adverse vote.

This result of the ballot can be counted unique as far as Western Canada is concerned, and it may be, in some cases, a record for Canada. In any case it is so unusual that it can be classed among the rare events in provincial history.

DUTIES OF A NEWSPAPER

A self-respecting newspaper tries to report news of what actually happens, not what it might wish had happened. The relation of a self-respecting newspaper to the general public is not always understood. It is the duty of a newspaper to support any good act and criticize any bad act of public policy. This relationship cannot exist where favors are asked and granted. Honesty is the only policy for a newspaper.—Wainwright Star.

St. Harry, Lauder recently played a round of golf at Glenora with an American visitor, who asked him to explain the significance of a big cairn of rough stones near the eighteenth hole.

"Weel," replied St. Harry, "I once lost a wee ba' thereabouts, and my caddie died o' starvation looking for it. That's his monument."
